IN THE EVENT

The event started with a march past by all the first years to represent teamwork, discipline and a systemic approach towards life. The event then continued with a motivational speech by our esteemed chief guest which filled us with energy. Since it was an event which took place on a large scale both MSI and MSIT students equivocally volunteered and took active participation in the races as well. All the tracks and gaming itineraries were prepared and tested beforehand. All the racing tracks were well thought out, and beautifully executed by our organising committee heads. Each of the winners of these sports were also awarded later.

In the main initial phase, we had March Past with first-year students participating from all the courses in the massive ground. After a while from the March Past began the competitions such as the 100 m dash in which a bunch of athletes had to compete against each other by running on the running tracks. The competition continued to get even more tedious when the 800m race began it was a tedious task where an athlete had to manage his depleting stamina and still had to run fast enough to win the race.

It was really challenging yet rewarding activity which tested out the coordination among the students and their ability to control and manage their exhaustion. After those two events came to the enthusiastically exciting events which were very much awaited by all the participants. Those two events were the standing broad jump and shot-put. These games tested the quad strength and triceps strength respectively.

As the games progressed, the tasks kept on getting more difficult and more chastising. We had the contestants who won in in round one participate, in more enticing competitions namely Javelin Throw. As the names suggest the Javelin Throw was a pretty standard sport. Only three of the contestants emerged victorious in this activity.

Many hours went unnoticed in these fun activities, finally when the event was about to conclude the contestants which had won the various events were called upon and awarded prizes. And with that the event was finally concluded for the participants and everyone started to head home, but the final phase had just begun for the volunteers and the event organisers. After the event was over, the clean-up of the event was also our sole responsibility. With that the Annual Sports Day was finally over, it was equally loved and enjoyed by the participants as it was by the organisers and volunteers.

CONCLUSION

The event was a big success, and many students from different departments showed teamwork, tenacity, and pure resolve. The professors were ecstatic to see their fellow students easily win the competitions. The event came to a close with the Guest of Honor making a moving statement about how he was thrilled with the vigour on the grounds.
